HUNTERS RUN WILD IN WILBUR

City Judge Schirick has received several complaints from residents in Wilbur stating that the hunters "are running wild there," and that some of the hunters are not 16 years of age, and yet they have been allowed a license to hunt. The one complaining last stated that these young hunters find their amusement in shooting neighbors' cats. A letter received by the city judge this morning states: "It is not safe for any one to be even on the roads in Wilbur." Further on the letter stated that every day boys, men and dogs are hunting in Wilbur back of the school house. A few years ago a pupil in the school was shot and killed, the writer states. It is against the law to hunt within the city limits, and it is likely that unless the practice is stopped arrests will follow.

He said that she had a key to the house and he was ready at all times to welcome her back home. Since she had left him he had kept the house going and cooked his own meals. ## RUNAWAY BOYS' TRIP HALTED

Three From Westchester County With Auto And $5 Bowed For California Held Here Until Parents Came After Them.

Sidney Sapole, aged 14, Julian Calloper, aged 15, and Alfred Freeman, aged 16, all of Mt. Vernon, Westchester county, started out from that city in a touring car owned by the Sapole boy's father for California, where they were going to look for a job, they said. They got as far as Port Ewen, and Saturday night camped out in a vacant house. Sunday morning Sheriff Smith was notified by a farmer of Port Ewen who saw the boys and suspected that they might be runaways, and Sheriff Smith brought them to the court house and after questioning them placed them in the women's quarters upstairs, and then notified the chief of police of Mt. Vernon who at once got in touch with the parents of the three youngsters. Sunday afternoon the parents all arrived at the court house and took them home. They had 66 cents left of five dollars which was the capital they started out with, but had spent the balance for gasoline and eatables; also had a small rifle and a couple of packs of playing cards. They were glad to go home with their parents. The Sapole boy had run the touring car on previous occasions having taken his mother out, and was given permission to take the car out by his mother on Friday, when he picked up the other boys, when the three decided to make a trip to California.

LOSES TWO GAMES

Chichester Beaten By Phoenixia and Hunter.

The Chichester basketball team was badly beaten by the Phoenixia second team at Phoenixia on Friday night. Without Jocelyn in the lineup the visiting team was unable to put up a fast game. However, Chichester is only one of the many teams that have taken the small end of a very uneven score on the Phoenixia court.

On Saturday night the Chichester team for the first time played a team that did not have the advantage of far heavier players. Chichester was again defeated, though. This time by the close score of 18 to 15. Their opponents were the fast high school team of Hunter. At half time the visitors led by two points and stayed in the lead until the last minute of play. Just before the whistle blew Springer, Hunter forward, threw a long field basket which gave the game to his team by one point.

The ice and snow also kept motorists busy avoiding ditches and telegraph poles. One big Studebaker automobile bearing a New Jersey license skidded on the Wilbur on Broadway at the head of Franklin street and landed up against the curb smashing a wheel and bending the axle. No one was hurt.

P. T. A. No. 4.

The Parent Teachers' Association of School No. 4 will meet Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. All members are asked to make the attendance a large one as some important business must be transacted.

The last resources upon which Mrs. Frederick Matters of Chicago pinned her hope for regaining possession of "Baby Irene," claimed by two mothers, was exhausted recently when the Ottawa, Canada, supreme court upheld the decision of the lower court awarding the child to Mrs. Margaret Ryan of Ottawa. By the same process of law the child was excluded from falling heir to nearly a third of a million dollars which would have been hers as the daughter of the rich Mrs. Matters. Ever since the two women were inmates of Misericordia Hospital the fight over "Baby Irene" has raged in the courts. Both had become mothers but one child died. Both women claimed the living child, and the courts decided that a substitution had taken place and that Mrs. Ryan was really the mother of the baby.

The hospitality and cordial good spirits pervading the entire assembly knitted the ties of friendship more closely with parishioners of other days and added new friends to a cherished circle.

Well merited praise is to be extended to the ladies in charge of the booth of treasured articles and to the ladies of the hospitable refreshment table. The appreciation of the sweet singing of Miss Anna Kelly of Wilbur and of Miss Monica Hession of Eddyville and of the duet at the piano of Miss Hession and Miss Mary Mooney was best shown by the applause of a delighted audience.

CHICAGO ROUNDS UP 800 CROOKS

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Chicago, Nov. 22.—More than 800 rammers, taken in the greatest raid Chicago has ever known, fill the police stations today. Police reports declare further raids are contemplated as a part of a campaign launched by Chief of Police Fitzmaurice to "clean up" Chicago.

The men were taken in a series of spectacular raids on some of the most notorious gambling houses in the city. Many of them, the police declare, have been found to be men with police records. These are being kept on exhibition and all persons who have been robbed in Chicago recently have been asked to view them in an attempt at identification.

Among the gamblers apprehended was Nick Donofalo, known as "Nick the Greek," one of Chicago's most noted devotees of games of chance. He is said to have had $140,000 in his possession when arrested.

SWALLOWED SPOONS

And Also Two Knives, and Dks Following an Operation.

The Poughkeepsie Evening Star of Saturday states:

It was learned today that Miss Margaret Shayne, 27, an actress, daughter of Mrs. Mary Shayne of Ferris Lane, and who has been confined to the Hudson River State Hospital for the last three years, died at that institution as the result of shock following an operation for the removal of several pieces of tableware which were found in her intestines.

Two large table knives and three spoons, all bearing the Hudson River State Hospital mark, were found. The operation was successful, having been performed on Tuesday evening, but death, which occurred on Saturday last, but in cases of insanity it was stated by Dr. R. W. Andrews, the patients are more subject to a severe reaction and this was what occurred in this case.

The knives and spoons had worked their way from the stomach into the intestines. The three spoons were nested together, which fact is causing surprise among the doctors as they do not know whether they were all swallowed together or had taken that position after being swallowed separately.

GRAY IMPROVES.

Motorcycle Accident Victim Making Remarkable Recovery.

George Gray of Glenford, who received a fractured skull in a motorcycle accident in which his brother Ronald Gray was killed on the Ulster & Delaware plank road near Kingston on the night of November 6, probably will recover, in the opinion of doctors who have followed his case closely.

About ten days ago Dr. H. P. Van Wazzen, William J. O'Leary and John G. O'Leary, performed an operation on the skull at the Benedictine Sanitarium, where Gray was taken immediately after the accident. For several days Gray's condition improved steadily, but on Thursday and Friday of last week he had a relapse. On Saturday Dr. Van Wazzen again performed a slight operation, draining the skull of a quantity of pus, since when Gray has shown a decided improvement. On Sunday for the first time since he was brought to the Sanitarium he displayed considerable appetite and asked for various dishes. An examination of his eyes indicates that his sight is returning.

ODD FEATURES IN GLASCO DIVORCE

Application for alimony and counsel fee was made before Judge Hasbrouck at supreme court chambers Saturday in the action for divorce brought by Henry Fuller against Malinda Fuller. Judge Jenkins appeared for Mrs. Fuller and the motion; Brinnier, Canfield & Brinnier appeared for Mr. Fuller and opposed.

Mr. Fuller conducts a general store at Glasco. For the past two years Mrs. Fuller has been residing in Brooklyn, at the home of Dr. Charles Theodore Hepp, who for many years had a summer home at Glasco.

From statements of counsel made to the court, the case presents many unusual features. Dr. Hepp's wife died a number of years ago and after her death he presented some of her diamonds to Mrs. Fuller. Mr. Fuller says his wife accepted them over his objection, telling him it was none of his business. Mrs. Fuller says the presentation of various articles belonging to Mrs. Hepp as made by the doctor was part of a general distribution of keepsakes.

During the summer season when the doctor occupied his cottage at Glasco, he went motoring frequently with Mrs. Fuller, which Mr. Fuller says was against his objection, and at other times, he says, she visited the doctor at his home in Brooklyn. She went to the doctor's home in the fall of 1918 and has been there since.

Mrs. Fuller claims that she took up her residence at Dr. Hepp's home with the consent of her husband. Her health had become impaired, she says, by twelve years of hard work helping her husband in the store at Glasco, and both her husband and his mother feared that she was contracting tuberculosis. They had confidence in Dr. Hepp, who had prescribed for her many times, and she went to Brooklyn with Mr. Fuller's consent in order that she might be under his constant care and observation as a physician. With Mr. Fuller's consent also, she says, she became the doctor's office assistant and took up the management of his household, making her home there and rendering these services in return for his professional services and care.

Dr. Hepp corroborates the statements of Mrs. Fuller, in an affidavit, and joins with her in deprecating any impropriety.

Mrs. Fuller makes a counter-claim for divorce, but impropriety is denied by Mr. Fuller and by the co-respondent named by Mrs. Fuller.

Dr. Hepp is about 55 years old and says he has known Mrs. Fuller since she was eleven years old, and has also known Fuller for many years.

Judge Hasbrouck took the papers and reserved decision.

WHAT TO EAT.

A salad combination that is especially good and not very common, is: Tomato and Pear Salad.—Peel ripe, firm tomatoes and cut in eighths or quarters; cut ripe pears after peeling and coring into the same sized pieces. Alternate a section of pear and tomato, making a flower-shaped design on heart leaves of lettuce. Place a spoonful of mayonnaise in the center and serve.

Whole Wheat and Graham Flour Bread.—Mix one cake of compressed yeast in one-half cupful of lukewarm water. Add two cupfuls of scalded milk, cooled to lukewarm, in which two tablespoonfuls of shortening have been melted. Add one-half teaspoonful of salt, one-half cupful of molasses, two cupfuls of whole wheat flour, two cupfuls of graham and one cupful of bran. Knead until smooth, adding white flour when elastic, cover and let rise in a warm place. Shape into two loaves. When light, bake one hour.

Tange Pear Salad.—Peel, halve and core ripe, juicy pears; cut the halves into slices without cutting quite through. Squeeze over them a little lemon juice to keep them from discoloring. Set these on heart leaves of lettuce and put a ball of seasoned cheese in the center of each half of pear. Pour over a delicately seasoned dressing and serve.

Stuffed Fish.—Pick any fish left from dinner into bits, carefully removing all the bones. Take a pint of milk, place in a double boiler, add a slice of onion cut fine, a sprig of parsley, minced fine, two tablespoonfuls of butter, salt and pepper to taste; stir in two tablespoonfuls of cornstarch, mixed with a little cold milk; let all cook until smooth and thick, then mix from the fire. Butter the sides and bottom of a roasting pan, put in a layer of fish, then a layer of cream sauce, then sprinkle over that battered crumfs, then a layer of fish again; repeat and finish with buttered crumfs. Bake until well browned.

CHAMBER MUSIC
CONCERT TONIGHT

The members of the New York Chamber Music Society which will give a concert at the high school this evening arrived in Kingston this morning on the 11:40 O. & W. train. They were met by a representative of the senior class, who helped them to get established in the Stuyvesant Hotel.

Miss Heebe was driven to the home of Dr. and Mrs. Putnam Cady, who are entertaining her during her stay in this city.

The New York Chamber Music Society is accustomed to using the Steinway piano. As there is no Steinway agent in this city, Mr. Hickcock and his men arrived here this morning with a Steinway grand piano and placed it on the rostrum of the auditorium for the use of the society this evening.

The citizens of Kingston have helped a great deal in an endeavor to make the concert a financial success for the senior class.

Manager George Gildersleeve, of the Opera House and Kenney's, kindly put slides on the screen at the shows at Kenney's.

Stock & Cordis requested that they be allowed to furnish the stage for the concert as they did for the Edison concert a few weeks ago.

The local newspapers have willingly given lengthy write-ups to the concert, all of which goes to show that the high character of the society is realized.

It will still be possible to get a few very desirable seats at the High School this evening. The concert will begin promptly at 8:15 o'clock.

GOOD SEASON FOR GRAPE MEN

That approximately half a million dollars have been returned to grape producers of lower Ulster county for their crops this year is the estimate by John Schuble, head of the Schuble Grape Juice Company of Highland. While the crop was somewhat smaller, somewhat higher prices prevailed, Mr. Schuble added, thus bringing up the average to the producer.

"This is the figure I would place on the crops marketed in the section south of Kingston and including Marlborough," said Mr. Schuble. "A ready market here in Highland encourages the production of grapes. The market conditions are important factors which all producers have to contend with. Had there been an apple market as ready and handy as has our plant has been for the grape men, the apple producers hereabouts would have suffered a smaller loss than they did."

"For grapes into which we made grape juice we paid them $125 to $150 a ton this year. This is higher than we paid last year. The grape crop was not quite as large here and this probably has something to do with the higher price. The cost of practically everything, you know, is regulated by supply and demand. The exception is where speculators control the situation."

"On the whole, I should say that Ulster's grape producers have had a very successful season. The producers here couldn't produce enough for us and we had to go all over the state for grapes."

Improving Property. Miss King is making extensive improvements on her beautiful property at Bloomingburgh and is installing modern plumbing, modern system water supply, Kingstonian power pump. The equipments were furnished by the Canfield Supply Co.

The usual good dinner will be served at the Eagle Hotel Thanksgiving day. Price $1.50 per plate. Reservations should be made early. —Advertisement.

The "little county fair," which at his store on lower Broadway since Thursday, closed today with the awarding of three prizes.

The first prize of $10 was award-

Third prize of $2 was awarded to

The following are deserving of

The three prize winners have voluntarily turned over their prize money as an extra contribution to the Industrial Home. All the fruit and vegetables as well as the cash will be taken to the home by Mr.
Eighmey on Tuesday, in time for their Thanksgiving.

The judges of the contest were E.
L. Chase of the Farm Bureau, E.
Hathaway of Port Ewen, and William Warren of Hurley.

The display of fruits in the windows on the Broadway side of the Eighmey store has attracted considerable attention during the past four days. Almost any hour of the day people could be seen admiring the fine specimens of fruit and vegetables. The display also served to advertise the kind of fruits that are grown in Ulster county and near Kingston.

ducks slowly sailed over the city hall tower and headed toward the Ashokan reservoir.

Gulf Stream's Course.

The force and velocity of the Gulf stream vary, to some extent, but its course does not materially change until it has run hundreds of miles northeastward off the coast of the United States. Gradually it does then shift its direction more eastward, at the same time spreading like a fan and becoming shallower.

"Lift the chest as high as ever it will go, and keep it there throughout the whole process of singing, from a single note to a song. The object of the raised chest is threefold: 1. To get it out of the way and give free play to the lungs. 2. To give resonance to the voice. 3. To give presence."—H. Plunket Greene, in "Interpretation in Song."

POWELLS REACH LOS ANGELES

Varied and Interesting Experiences Of Kingston Party Who Crossed Continent in Auto, Camping By The Way.

The details of the trip to California by automobile which was taken by Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Powell and Mrs. Powell's brothers, the Messrs. Taylor, and Mrs. Taylor, form an interesting tale as written by Mr. Powell to his sons, and The Freeman is privileged herewith to publish the letter, as follows:

Los Angeles, Cal., November 8, 1929.

Dear Sons:

I am in California safe and sound after a most eventful and enjoyable trip. I'll try and give you an idea of some of the things that we did. The first day we didn't cover much ground as we had to make a detour before reaching Alameda. On our arrival there we discovered we had a broken rear spring and not being able to obtain a spring in the city, Taylor and I jumped a trolley car and went to Schenectady where we found one. He turned back, left the car at a garage after leaving a camping place four miles west of the city. The first night we found it a little difficult getting things just right, but we lived through it alright. In the morning we were out bright and early and took a fine wash with the dew which was very heavy on the grass. Nothing like it. I want to recommend this style of bathing to the good looking people of Kingston, especially the Ding-Bats. You will remember our old friend John D. once said there was nothing that would make the feet so beautiful as tramping in the grass when the dew was on it, so I expect to hear all the Nabobs of Kingston have gone on the tramp through wet grass. After I had milked most of the milkweed, and there were plenty of them, we got the car packed on our equipment and started west arriving at Amsterdam one-thirty p. m. called on Sister Alice and others and left there three p. m. We made Little Falls and camped a few miles west, in Miller's Grove, a delightful spot to camp. In the night we had thunder showers, and in the morning it settled down to drizzle, so we decided to remain there until the next day. We had a fine time at this place. The proprietor used us fine. I forgot to state we did our own cooking, as we had a full equipment in this line.

Friday, the tenth, it rained hard. We cooked breakfast, took down tents, and just sat around leisurely all day. We used the pavilion for our camp at night. It got a little cool before morning and a shimmied some, but had a good night's sleep.

Saturday, the eleventh, had breakfast, packed up, left nine forty-five a. m. Arrived in Syracuse two-thirty. Looked around some. I guess our lady driver thought she would try and see if she could knock down one of the silent policemen on Salina street. She hit him alright but the thing came back again; more lively than the one at the Y. M. C. A. corner. At night we camped six miles west of Auburn. It commenced to rain at this point and we knew we would have a hard time getting the tents up, so we found a farm with wonderful buildings that had been abandoned only a few days before on account of a quarrel between the owner and the tenant.

The barns were full of wheat. A fellow came along and said he was looking after it and told us to go in and make ourselves at home and we did so. It was great sleeping on those sheaves of wheat. We spread our blankets on them and it was some bed. Well we only had six distinct thunder storms that night, but we enjoyed it all. We cooked in the wagon house.

Sunday, the twelfth. Started for Buffalo, arrived four p. m. Drove on thirty miles west and camped. At this point we commenced to meet others bound for California.

The thirteenth we camped between Madison and Painesville, Ohio. Some roads very bad, scenery through Ohio and Indiana being very much like New York state, so will not speak of that now.

The fourteenth, broke camp and ran to Mentor, saw the Garfield Homestead and James Jr. is living there now. We ran through to Cleveland. This is a beautiful city, especially the Lake Side Park. We camped on School ground that night. By this time we were mixing up with many parties, all bound for the coast, and I want to tell you that you would be surprised to know the great number of business men we met with their Packards and all makes of cars just out with their families for a genuine health outing.

The fifteenth, ran all day and camped at Delta, Ohio. Pitched tent, had supper, turned in eight o'clock. In the middle of the night, a very heavy thunder shower visited us and blew the tent down. There was some scrambling to raise the house of shelter. No movie could beat that scene.

The sixteenth we rode through many beautiful towns and arrived in Lowell, Indiana. After supper all hands and the cook had an Indian dance around the camp-fire. Would see lights of Chicago. The price of the best bacon here was 45 cents per pound, porter-house, 25 cents, lamb chops, 25 cents. This makes prices in Kingston look sick, doesn't it?

The seventeenth, drove through Indiana and Aurora, Illinois. All day country. Nineteenth, we crossed the Mississippi river, and arrived at Clinton, Iowa, four p. m. passed over bridge at Dixon and crossed Rock river. We had awful detours all day.

The twentieth, arrived at Cedar Rapids. This is a small trading city of about eight thousand. The twenty-first, left for Colo. Iowa, crossed through Marshalltown. It would surprise you to see some of these up-to-date towns. This one had sixteen thousand population. Twenty-second, started for Des Moines through Boone. Reached after dinner. I am up to date on my trip. We camped nights through these states on school grounds. Cities provided space for this purpose. I'd like to see some-one camp on Kingston's school grounds, Ha, Ha.

The twenty-third, started for Omaha, Nebraska. You will remember this is the state W. J. Bryan carried on his silent strike. We passed through Logan and arrived at Omaha four p. m., and registered at a hotel. Here we had to have the engine cleared. This was the last day of their great yearly event, called Ak-Sar-Ben Nebraska, only spelling it backwards as above shown. It was a historical parade consisting of floats representing Boston Tea Party, Landing of Columbus, Landing of the Pilgrims, and all early historical events. The floats were beautiful and Indians, O boy, the real stuff.

The twenty-fourth just rolled along. Twenty-fifth, we were caught in a Nebraska sand storm. It blew all night and hot, not much sleep.

Twenty-sixth, the "sand storm" was still howling, and it was almost impossible to run through it. Reached Silver Creek a small town and put up for the night. Twenty-seventh, left for Grand Island, had some bad roads, broke rear spring and put up here two days. That fellow Cox from Ohio, came through and told what he would do when elected president. He'll have a long time to prepare for it, I think. Here we made the acquaintance of two more parties, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Smith, and son, both from Michigan, with a big Packard car. (I'll speak of this car later) and two fellows with a Hupmobile, Frank Henderson and Raymond Hewitt, both bankers. So we all joined in a parade west and kept close together which made it very pleasant.

Twenty-ninth we left for North Platte and arrived at Fair Grounds seven p. m. Here's where the Chamber of Commerce did the right thing. They provided the tourists with free food built in stoves to cook on, hot and cold water and shower baths. This was all done so travelers would boost North Platte and they did.

Thirtieth very cold, arrived at Fort Morgan eleven a. m. on way to Denver. We wanted to continue our journey through Wyoming and thence to Salt Lake City, but the great mountain passes were full of snow so we were compelled to abandon that part of the trip. I want to tell you of the most wonderful sight I ever saw, running from Julesburg to Denver we ran for miles over a very level country. One could see for miles in all directions. It was at sunset and the sky very clear with the exception of a few clouds in the west which made a beautiful scene. Just as the sun had disappeared below the horizon and around us as bright as could be, we looked back and saw that darkness was following us; the stars shone through the darkness and we could follow the night creeping nearer and nearer until we were enveloped in darkness. I don't think anyone could describe such a scene to another and make them fully appreciate the splendor of such a sight. We arrived at Denver at seven p. m. drove to the old Jockey Club race track, taken over by the city of Denver for sixty thousand dollars and for which the Jockey Club paid seven hundred and fifty thousand dollars to erect when racing was legal in that state. Here they had a very fine eating house and shower baths for tourists. There are thousands of tourists who stop there. Denver is a very beautiful city and the scenery surrounding the country is wonderful.

October the first we left for Colorado Springs, camped on the municipal grounds at side of lake. Next day, the second, we intended to drive the Dodge up Pike's Peak but Mr. Smith wanted to take his Packard so we, nine of us, went with him. How was that? I will not attempt to tell you much about this trip only it was wonderful. When we reached the eleven thousand foot elevation we ordered chicken dinners to be served on our return, and continued our climb. It was terrible cold and the wind blew. We finally reached the summit and were glad of it. Some members of the party were quite dizzy owing to the high altitude.

The view from the peak was beyond description. There are six lakes in this mountain and the lofty mountains around this section looked very small from this height. After registering at the summit a man said to me, "Then you are from Kingston?" Why I was born in Saugerties, and lived there a number of years. His name was J. V. McCormick, now living at Tulsa, Okla., and connected with the Allied Refining Co.

We commenced our descent and arrived at the Glen Cove Inn and here we were served dinner with fifty or more people at the same time. Two great log fires were burning cheerfully. After dinner we started back reaching Colorado Springs at three o'clock. Then we left for Pueblo arriving there at six o'clock and camped.

October third we started for Batavia, New Mexico, but running through the main street in Pueblo, a fellow came out of a side street and ran right into us, struck us midship. The blame thing was a Ford and you ought to have seen his boat, he could not start the thing. We got out and asked the gentleman why he ran into us and did it so deliberately. He said "I can't see very well, I only have one eye." Someone came in for the police and they were there in about ten minutes. The fellow told him to make a settlement with the owner of the car, so he did and said that he would sell his car and get a team of mules. Our driver suggested he have only one. We went on and reached Trinidad early, then through to Batavia on over the Pass. It was beautiful but very steep. I had traveled through this part of Mexico before, so we went a different route going in way of the Pass, and it was wonderful. There was a fine stream of water running through the Pass, and we saw many ducks built by the houses. The foliage was just terrific and it looked like a beautiful picture. We continued on and at sundown we arrived at a place called Tama, a Mexican village. Here we had supper at a place run by an American. We left this place after our supper as we did not

In the Dining-Car

THE dining-cars of the New York Central Lines are not run for profit. They exist solely for the convenience and comfort of travelers. The greatest care is exercised in the selection of the food. No big hotel could be more particular in this regard.

As you take your seat and order your meal, have you ever stopped to consider that you are but one of 10,726 persons served every day on these Lines? That twenty years of thought and effort and planning stand behind the serving of this single luncheon or dinner?

This dining-car service, concentrated under one roof would, in itself, constitute a problem; but, scattered over a territory embracing twelve thousand miles or more, it represents a responsibility of even greater magnitude.

DID you know that the New York Central Lines purchase 2,015,000 pounds of meat a year for consumption in their diners? That there are 154 dining-cars like that in which you are riding, and that this number is being rapidly increased? Twelve new dining-cars will soon be completed and in use. These cars cost approximately $46,000 each—an investment which would make possible quite a commodious night-and-day city restaurant.

The number of waiters who serve the traveling public on these Lines is 884, and in the course of a year 42,993 bushels of potatoes are bought; 235,392 pounds of butter; 720,000 loaves of bread; 365,475 pounds of chicken; 371,193 pounds of sugar; and 324,060 dozen eggs.

In the compact kitchens are 651 busy cooks. And the unbelievable sum of 14,076,108 pieces of linen are laundered every year.

EVERY employee in our dining-cars is physically examined at the time of his engagement and at stated intervals thereafter, and must pass exacting tests.

Under the pressure of many transportation problems, the comfort and convenience of passengers have always been major considerations on the New York Central Lines.

THE NEW YORK CENTRAL LINES

like the looks of the natives, they were a hard looking bunch.

October fourth beautiful a. m.; broke camp and left for Santa Fe. Drove through some flat land and before we could realize where we were, we found ourselves starting down through the Rio Grande canyon. This was an awful hole in the rocks. Once in, there was no possible way to turn back. The road was only wide enough for one car and hardly that except at some spots where there were places cut in the rock where you could wait for another car, but it was awful to look ahead and wonder if you would ever get out of it for it was as wild as could be. We met a cattle grower when we got to our next place who wanted to know which way we traveled to reach there. When we told him through the canyon, he said, "If you drove through there and weren't molested by any of those devils that hang around there, the toughest bunch of men to be found in the western country, you are surely in luck," and we thought so. We arrived at Santa Fe, four p. m., and camped, found everyone there great is excited over elections. I went to a barber shop and the tonorial artist was a sure cut would be elected. I offered to bet the gentleman owner of the hair saloon sitting outside. He wouldn't bet, but said he was sure. You know the results, so does Cox.

October sixth, we left Santa Fe for Albuquerque and had some really bad roads. Arrived there 4 p. m. and left next morning for Springville. We reached there five o'clock and took our supper at the hotel. This building was made of adobe and the house was a genuine adobe. We had a fine supper and were getting ready to sleep when I said to the gentleman, "Are there any rattlesnakes around here?" "Oh, yes, lots of them." Well I said, "Gee, I'll sleep in the hotel." He replied all of them were in bed by that time, but I had a headache so I camped in the hotel just the same.

The seventh we arrived at Springville about four p. m., ran on west about ten miles, pitched tent, had supper and then to bed and dreamed of the Petrified Forest which we were to visit the next day. The eighth, left eight a. m. for the forest. Arrived there ten o'clock. It was some scene with trees three feet and six feet in diameter with great limbs broken off and the coloring was wonderful. We had a small axe with us and I tried to break off a piece that looked a little better than any I had seen, but I could not knock even a splinter off. It makes one wonder what caused such a condition, but many wise men have disagreed on this phenomenon so I'll give up. There are many lava mounds, one half mile from there, showing that there had been a terrific heat some time in ages past. We left for Flagstaff, arrived at Winslow at five p. m., ran out ten miles west and camped on the desert. It was very cold that night, and we had a fine coyote concert during the night. I don't know how many took part, but there were many running around the desert barking, making an uncanny sound.

The ninth we continued for Flagstaff, arriving there two p. m. very windy. Left next day for Kingman but roads were so bad we could only make a few miles and we camped a few miles west of Seelye. Had a hot old fire of cedar sticks, set on cold in the night, we had to come out and start fire and make coffee.

The tenth we made Kingman at noon and Needles in the evening. It always seems good to a traveler when he strikes the Colorado river and can look over to California. We camped at Needles and went to the railroad station and started. House and looked at the old Indians and artifacts. Some bunk, but I want to say the old ladies have the color right with them and this don't care a snap for just.

The eleventh we started for Barstow but turned out in the desert to get another axle tree and broke one axle, then we were in bad a bad one and had to call on my father but could not do it. We all jumped in other cars and rode in to Ludlow and sent two men out to repair it and bring it in. So we got started next morning for Barstow. Reached the city at noon, made San Bernardino at night. Here the city is building a beautiful camp-ground and park for tourists. The Rotary Club is constructing a fine building with baths and every convenience for tourists. The city furnishes the grounds and have erected many beautiful tables of concrete, ovens etc. Other organizations are contributing to make it a wonderful place.

The month we left for Los Angeles and arrived there about one p. m. Here we found every place crowded with tourists. To give you some idea of conditions, the railroad showing in here gave out figures showing they brought into Los Angeles during October a daily average of twenty-nine hundred people, and the number daily is still increasing.

I have given you a condensed review of our trip and while the trip may not seem out of the ordinary, it surely was and we had loads of fun. While driving through New Mexico and talking over some of the mean aim country and running very slowly we ran into a horse standing in the road. When we struck Mr. Brown, he came up a pretty stiff with both hind feet and struck the rear mudguard. It was there I was very glad that the car did not belong to me.

In closing I want to say New Mexico has some wonderful scenery. Alan Arizona but when you want a state with beautiful farms and farm buildings you must go to Iowa, which is surely a fine agricultural state.

I can't praise the Dodge our too highly for it pulled us through the heavy loads and we helped others through mountain-passes. As I am tired of writing, I will close tonight. You are all well and Kingston is beautiful as ever. I am. Affectionately.

DAD.

"Fifth Monarchy Men."

The "Fifth Monarchy Men" were an extreme sect in England of the period of the Puritan revolution, largely found in the army which supported Cromwell, in the belief that his government was the beginning of the "Fifth Monarchy," during which the millennial reign of Christ on earth would take place. The previous four monarchies were the Assyrian, Persian, Grecian and Roman. But such fanatics could not but be in opposition to any established government, and Cromwell had some difficulties with them. In 1661 the revolt of Venner was largely supported by this sect.

Gifts That Please

Of all the practical gifts that are sure to please there are none more dependable than good-looking waste baskets. There are many kinds to choose from but, valued most, are those made at home of fabrics, as cretonne, sateen, tapestry, satin, colored oddcloth and other things. Foundations of heavy cardboard or light wood are covered with these materials. Two attractive baskets are shown in the picture above, one of tapestry and satin and one of heavy sateen. The latter is provided with a handle of braided cord for hanging.

Church Built From One Tree.

With the exception of the floor, every piece of timber used in the construction of a church recently completed at Santa Rosa, Cal., was cut from one tree—a giant redwood, 18 feet in diameter. The tree produced 78,000 feet of timber, besides a large number of shingles.

AT THE THEATRE.

Shirley Mason At Keeney's—Bryant Washburn At Opera House.

What is claimed to be the daintiest picture in which Shirley Mason has yet appeared is programmed at Keeney's tonight entitled "The Little Wanderer." Miss Mason is seen first in an ill-treated attaché of a traveling medicine show, then in succession as a "boy" tramp, a waitress, a lady's companion and the fiancée of a rich man's son. Raymond MacKee is her leading man. A Sunshine comedy is also programmed tonight. Coming tomorrow is Tom Moore in "Dicks," a story of smugglers with tense moments, huge stakes, desperate ventures and strange women.

Bryant Washburn in "Mrs. Temple's Telegram" is the feature photoplay attraction at the Opera House tonight. It is adapted from the famous stage play of twenty years ago. Larry Seamon in his latest "blues buster," "The Stage Hand" is also featured and as the "Boob" stage hand he succeeds wonderfully well in doing the wrong thing just at the right time. This double attraction will be presented at the Opera House again tomorrow.

Eva Novak, leading woman with William S. Hart, is starring in "Wanted at Headquarters" at the Auditorium tonight. It is a story of a brilliant and fascinating leader of a band of criminals who, just as she has successfully "pulled off" the most amazing robbery ever perpetrated, realizes she is on the wrong path. Later love leads her to practical repentance and real happiness. "Hidden Dangers," the mystery serial, is also programmed for tonight. Tomorrow an all star cast in "The She Tiger," a thrilling drama of Mexican Border life is the attraction.

"Ruddigore," to be given at the Kingston Opera House on Wednesday night, Alexander Woolcott of the New York Times said: "There is more abiding humor in 'Ruddigore' than in all the rest of the current musical shows put together," and he added: "Doubtless there is an evening of higher enjoyment to be had than at a first hearing of 'Ruddigore,' but we don't know where or how." The seat sale opened today.

ST. STEPHEN'S WINS.

Closes Season By Rolling Up One-Sided Score.

On Zabriske Field, Annandale, the Maroon and White forces of St. Stephen's gained a notable victory over New York State Agricultural College on Saturday last. Although the game ended in a one-sided score of 64 to 0, it gave Annandale an opportunity to display the high brand of affirmative tactics which have attracted attention to the team during the season. The St. Stephen's eleven although composed of men who had played together for the first time this year, has played real football. After a few years in which to develop, the Annandale team should become one of the football powers among the eastern colleges.

AS HE SIZED UP THE VISITOR

Hotel Clerk Was Pretty Sure That He Was Not Likely to Come in Very Early.

Cortlandt Bleeker said at a New York roof-garden supper: "Apropos of New York as a summer resort, I heard a story the other day. 'A westerner blew in here and applied for a room in a hotel. The hotel clerk said to him: 'Very sorry, sir, but we're so overcrowded that I'll have to ask you to share a room with another gentleman. Will that do?' 'That, yes, I suppose so,' said the westerner reluctantly, 'but will this chap turn in early? I've got a lot of work to do here in New York, and I'll need a lot of sleep, and I don't want to be disturbed by crinoline.' 'The clerk laughed. 'You'll have your night's rest completed before this gentleman ever gets in,' he said. 'Sure of that?' said the westerner. 'Certainly,' said the clerk. 'You see, the man's been stopping with us every August for the last eleven years, and this is the first time he's made the trip without his wife.'"

Light and Phone Screens

Why a butter maker was needed to perfect Troco

Because the process of making is essentially the same. Dainty white coconut fat, appetizing and nutritious, replaces butter fat. What makes good butter flavor makes good Troco flavor.

Thus we employ A. E. Hoffman, a famous butter and milk expert, to supervise the making of Troco. He has spent 30 years making and judging butter and teaching butter making.

Scrupulous care and human skill

Mr. Hoffman has no secret process. Scrupulous care, beginning with the selection of materials and extending through every process, is the foundation of his great success. No mechanical process can produce sweetness and delicate flavor. This depends on human skill. Mr. Hoffman's butter was famous for the wonderful flavor which he now puts into Troco.

We built a new plant

To give Mr. Hoffman proper facilities for his exacting work we built a new plant, up-to-the-minute in equipment and sanitation. Here he can standardize production and insure the perfection of every pound.

CONDENSED CLASSICS

DOMBEY AND SON

By CHARLES DICKENS

Condensation by Miss Carolyn Tucker

her, with gleaming teeth and a paternal smile, the instrument and constant of Dombey, who by his father and cunning has gained almost complete control over his master's business. Working always to satisfy his own ambitions, he mistrusts the growing partiality for Walter Gay and sends him on a voyage to the Indies, experiencing keen satisfaction when the youth is shipwrecked and reported drowned.

This last adds one more sorrow to those already the portion of Florence, whose father emerging from the gloom of his apartment seeks to divert his mind by going on a journey with his friend, Major Bagstock, a garrulous old society man. They travel to Leamington, where Mr. Dombey is introduced to some of the major's friends, and meets Mrs. Skewton and her widowed daughter, the cold and beautiful Edith Granger, who at once attracts his fancy.

Edith is proud, scornful, imperious, and for these traits the proud and dominating man admires her too more. He offers her wealth and position, and she, needing these things, accepts him, scornful meanwhile both the man and his offering, but willing to satisfy the irritating demands of her scheming mother with whom her life is unendurable.

A loveless marriage follows and the haughty wife asserts her own strong will, refuses to further the social ambitions of her husband, and enrages him by showering affection upon Florence. At last, goaded by Dombey's effort to break her spirit, and ready to be revenged upon him for his endeavor to humiliate her by orders sent her through his agent, Carver, she consents to fly from her home at the entreaty of her husband's paid minion, who from the first has fallen a victim to her beauty. Having revenged herself upon her husband by thus humiliating him, Edith proceeds to cast off Carver, whom she despises; she meets him at Dijon by appointment, and in the moment when he is glorying in the attainment of his desire, turns on him, denounces him and before he can stop her, rushes from the apartment, making good her escape, while he is left to confront his pursuer, her enraged husband, who has tracked them to Dijon.

Foiled and entrapped, Carver flees back to England, eluding his pursuer, only to be again tracked to his hiding place. When he believes himself safe from detection, he suddenly spies Dombey advancing toward him across the platform of a railway station, and dodging in affright on to the tracks behind him Carver is killed by an oncoming train.

In the hour of her father's humiliation, Florence once more turns to him with loving protestations, but he, enraged at the remembrance that she has ever won the love he has sought vainly, casts her off with an oath and strikes her brutally.

Partially stunned and feeling herself homeless and fatherless, Florence rushes half-dressed into the streets of London, and fainting with exhaustion finds shelter at the "Wooden Midshipman," now in the charge of Captain Cuttle. Following the sudden disappearance of old Sol Gills, the captain has taken possession of the place, not knowing if his friend, whose life had become insupportable without his beloved nephew, was alive or dead.

Tenderly welcomed to this humble home, Florence remains in hiding until the unexpected arrival of Walter, who suddenly appears upon the scene returning from a series of perilous adventures. Walter, the brother, is speedily transformed into Walter, the lover, and the young couple are united, to the delight of Captain Cuttle, also of old Sol Gills, who reappears from journeying to foreign parts in vain search for some news of Walter.

Meanwhile, the fortunes of Mr. Dombey, weakened by Carver's doubtful transactions, and also by the loss of his shrewd guidance, go down in ruin, leaving the proud head of the firm broken in health and spirit, with home and fortune wrecked.

Then tenderly forgetting all, Florence goes to her father and takes him to her home, where after a long illness, he arises a changed man, repentant of the past, and only caring to devote his last days to his daughter and her two children; Paul who reminds him of his lost son, and little Florence, dearest of all to his penitent heart.

This work, which was first issued in serial form in 1847, met with immediate success. Its pages contain a wealth of incident and character, of fun, satire and pathos. Florence is one of Dickens' loveliest creations, and Dr. Blimber's school is described in his finest vein. Kind Captain Cuttle is the famous world over, as are Mr. Toots, Mrs. Pipchin and old Joe Bagstock. The death-bed scene of little Paul reveals the author's steadfast faith in immortality, and has done much to comfort suffering hearts throughout the world.

Christmas Toys the Toys Can Make

By A. NEELY HALL

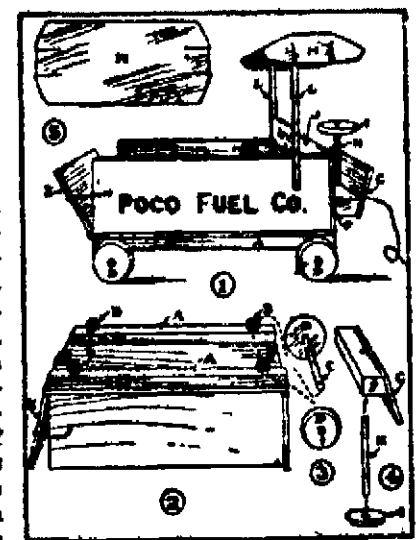

(Copyright by A. Neely Hall)

When painted in bright colors, the toys shown in the illustrations will be as pleasing to these young relatives whom you wish to remember on Christmas, as any similar toys in stores.

The auto truck shown in Fig. 1 has a cigar-box body 5 inches wide, 8 inches long and 2 inches deep. Cut wooden strips A (Fig. 2) 1 inch wide and 1 inch thick, by the length of the box, and nail them to the box bottom close to the sides. Screw screweye axle bearings B into these strips. The screweyes should be 1/4 inch in diameter, because the wheel axles C (Fig. 3) must be of this diameter to fit the holes of the spool wheels D. The wheels are spool ends.

Remove the rear end of the box and hinge it to the box bottom (E, Fig. 2), for an end gate.

Fig. 4 shows a detail of front platform, F, dashboard G, steering post H, and steering-wheel I—a spool-and. Fasten these pieces as indicated. Fit seat J across the box top, and seat back K to its edge. Nail canopy supports L to the seat back and box sides, and tack the canopy M to the supports near the top.

The clown turner (Fig. 6) is made to perform upon his turning-pole by squeezing the lower end of the up-rights. The squeezing causes a pair of threads F (Fig. 11) to untwist then twist, and the untwisting and twisting makes the clown turn.

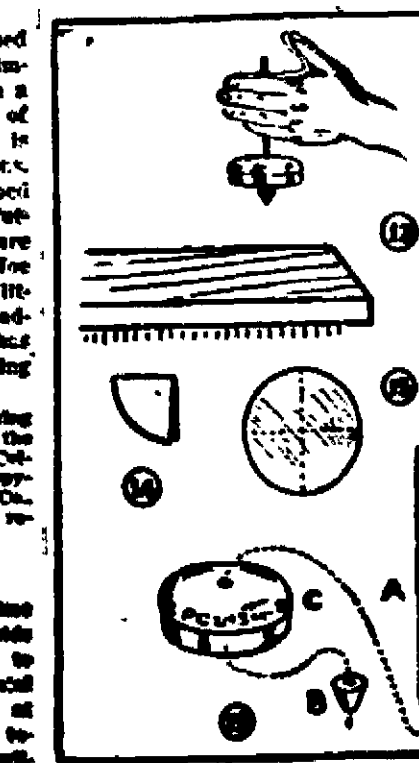

Fig. 7 shows dimensions for up-rights A and connecting block B. Fasten B between strips A as shown.

Patterns for the clown are shown in Figs. 8, 9 and 10. Cut the body members out of cigar-box wood, punch holes where indicated, and with pieces of hairpins or other small wire, pivot the arms and legs to the body. Pierce a small hole through each hand, and whittle the ends of a match to fit in the holes. The match (E, Fig. 7) forms the turning-pole. With a coarse needle pierce a pair of holes through the arms at the wrists, and another pair through up-rights A near the top. Run heavy linen threads through the holes in the wrists, and twist their ends (F, Fig. 11), then run the ends through the holes in up-rights A and tie. The threads must be twisted when the clown hangs down (Fig. 11), untwisted when he has swung up over the pole.

The top in Fig. 12 requires little description. A pencil with a blunt point (A, Fig. 12) pushed through a spool whittled cone-shaped (B), forms the spinning point, and a shoe-polish can (C), pierced to push over the pencil and rest upon the spool end, completes the top.

The top is spun by rotating the pencil between the palms, in one direction, then the other alternately (Fig. 13).

"HUNGER STRIKE" NOT NEW

Was Successfully Employed as Far Back as the Days of the Early Roman Empire.

The hunger strike, as a means to attaining one's end, is not a modern invention. Like so many other things that relate to personal and national conduct, it has been known to mankind since the dawn of history. It was successfully employed by the Romans in the case of the Gauls, who were successfully subdued by the Romans.

It was in 67 B. C. and Thucydides, the famous general of the Roman Empire, was the man who put it over with a dispatch that would have brought peace from Rome.

Thucydides was a man of dignity and spirit, who represented traditional conservatism. He was married to Julia, daughter of Augustus, whose marriage, among other things, was a political move. She was given to him by the emperor as a reward for his services.

the philosophers and legislators of the time.

While Thucydides was engaged in the campaign against the Gauls, Julia commenced to eat up with a young aristocrat, Scipio Aemilianus. Scipio had, 12 years previously, made a law which just fired her case and under which she later was executed.

Julia not only executed her law, but also started on a political career for her own. She was in direct opposition to the aims of her husband, who she started a campaign to have Calpurnius appointed consul and she worked her propaganda on well that Augustus was finally compelled to have the popular election.

What a Camel Looks Like.

We have been trying for some time to think what a camel looks like, and now we have made it out. When he is down on all his knees, flat on his breast, to receive his load, he looks something like a goose swimming; and when he is upright, he looks like an old witch with an extra set of legs. Camels are not beautiful, and their long under lip gives them an exceedingly "galled" expression. They have immense flat, forked cushions of fat that make a trunk in the neck like a pile with a silver cut out of it. They are not particular about their diet. They would eat a mountain if they could bite it. A camel's ears are about five inches long and are so stiff that they would pierce through leather. I think if one touched you you can feel relief in both ears but probably the camel can't feel them. They show by their attitude that they enjoy them. I suppose it would be a real treat to a camel to have a box of nails for supper. Mark Twain in "The Innocents Abroad" from Faine's "Memento with Mark Twain."

When he is down on all his knees, flat on his breast, to receive his load, he looks something like a goose swimming; and when he is upright, he looks like an old witch with an extra set of legs. Camels are not beautiful, and their long under lip gives them an exceedingly "galled" expression. They have immense flat, forked cushions of fat that make a trunk in the neck like a pile with a silver cut out of it. They are not particular about their diet. They would eat a mountain if they could bite it. A camel's ears are about five inches long and are so stiff that they would pierce through leather. I think if one touched you you can feel relief in both ears but probably the camel can't feel them. They show by their attitude that they enjoy them. I suppose it would be a real treat to a camel to have a box of nails for supper. Mark Twain in "The Innocents Abroad" from Faine's "Memento with Mark Twain."

What a Camel Looks Like.

We have been trying for some time to think what a camel looks like, and now we have made it out. When he is down on all his knees, flat on his breast, to receive his load, he looks something like a goose swimming; and when he is upright, he looks like an old witch with an extra set of legs. Camels are not beautiful, and their long under lip gives them an exceedingly "galled" expression. They have immense flat, forked cushions of fat that make a trunk in the neck like a pile with a silver cut out of it. They are not particular about their diet. They would eat a mountain if they could bite it. A camel's ears are about five inches long and are so stiff that they would pierce through leather. I think if one touched you you can feel relief in both ears but probably the camel can't feel them. They show by their attitude that they enjoy them. I suppose it would be a real treat to a camel to have a box of nails for supper. Mark Twain in "The Innocents Abroad" from Faine's "Memento with Mark Twain."

PRESIDENT BEAL
CROSS-EXAMINED

Gas Company Executive Says Loss to 1919 Was Nearly $200,000 on Gas and Prospects Are Not Much Better Showing This Year.

The application of the Kingston Gas &amp; Electric Company for permission to increase its rates for gas in this city from $1.15 to $1.90 per thousand feet, had its second hearing before Public Service Commissioner Kellogg at the court house today, when President T. R. Beal of Poughkeepsie was cross-examined in regard to the schedules, etc., which he filed and testimony he gave at the first hearing at Albany several weeks ago.

The gas company was represented at the hearing by M. H. Biglow, of the firm of Gould &amp; Wilkie of New York city, with Douglas M. Black of counsel; Corporation Counsel William D. Brinnier and Mayor Canfield appeared for the city in opposition to the application, which also was opposed by the Kingston Taxpayers' Association, which was represented by Francis C. Merritt.

In reply to questions by Mr. Merritt, Mr. Beal said the company lost approximately $21,000 on gas in 1918, and the profit on the whole business in 1919 was between $20,000 and $22,000. There was less loss on gas in 1919 than in 1918, but there was no profit. The loss in 1918 was $18,000 over the previous year, and in 1919 it was $4,781 over 1918. The cost of most of the ingredients used in making gas has increased over 1919, but he could not give the market price of coal at the mines used by the company but was sure the company had not received a reduction of 25 to 40 per cent. For more than two years the company could not get coal on yearly contracts, but where possible bought on short term contracts. Coal in the bin at the works cost the company $11 per ton.

Coal gas and water gas are made by the company, which uses coke, a by-product of coal gas making, in making water gas. The company also had an ammonia machine, and formerly made ammonia as a by-product but the machine had not been used since 1917 because it was in disrepair and to make ammonia would cost more than the company could get for it. General office expenses are charged as between the gas and electricity departments in the ratio of the gross income of the two departments. The company obtained the best prices possible in buying materials and had not received any reductions and believed it would cost more next year to manufacture gas.

The standard of gas in the Second Public Service District has been
